Join us for ISLANDR's Final Webinar: Sustainable Strategies for Contaminated Land Management

Dear readers,

You're invited to join ISLANDR's final webinar: Sustainable Strategies for Contaminated Land Management on Monday 15 June at 12:15-16:00 CEST, online.

Contaminated land is one of Europe's most pressing environmental challenges. Many potentially contaminated sites lack access to the tools, methodologies, and frameworks needed for effective, sustainable remediation.

The ISLANDR project has been developing integrated solutions to this problem over the last years of the project duration. On Monday, ISLANDR will be sharing everything with you, this webinar is designed for researchers, policymakers, land managers/site owners, farmers, investors, and environmental professionals.

This event showcases integrated approaches to managing contaminated land through science, technology, and strategic planning, drawing from valuable insights and project results from the ISLANDR Project from the last three years.

What to expect?

- Q&A with ISLANDR experts
- Presentation of tools and methodologies
- Real case studies from contaminated sites across Europe
- Practical insights grounded in research

- A welcoming, collaborative environment for learning

What You'll Learn

This webinar covers the full spectrum of sustainable contaminated land management:

- Uncover the ISLANDR Roadmap Tool
- IISDIA Methodology/ interpolation and anomaly detection algorithm especially designed for sparse, clustered or imprecise environmental data (SIC)
- Regional Risk Assessment methodologies and application to Toulouse ISLANDR Test Area
- Soil-inclusive spatial planning strategies
- Virtual Climate Lab tool: Soesterberg ISLANDR Test Area
- Framework for developing financial models to promote remediation action and demonstration (in ISLANDR Test Areas)
- Soil health into consideration

Register now!

Once registered, you'll receive confirmation and the webinar link via email. Join us live, or if you can't make it, we'll send a recording to registered attendees.

We hope to see you on Monday!
